

Odessa State Environmental University, Ukraine

PhD student profile

Vladyslav Mykhailenko is currently studying a PhD program at Odessa State Environmental University, Ukraine.

His research interests are mainly focused on environmental control, human safety, persistent organic pollutants in Odessa, environmental education etc.

He took part in a summer school on 'Nature Based Solutions for Smart Cities' within the framework of the Erasmus+ project "Integrated Doctoral Program for Environmental Policy, Management and Technology – INTENSE" (Mahilioŭ, Belarus, 2018).

Academic interest:

- Analysis of the situation with persistent organic pollutants in Ukraine
- Ranking of the danger of different types of automobile engines on the relative hazard of pollutants emissions

PhD topic:

Sources of Regeneration of Persistent Organic Pollutants and their Environment Impact at the Odessa Industrial and Urban Agglomeration

PhD supervisor:

Tetiana Shanina, PhD (Chemistry), Associate Professor at the Department of Ecology and Environmental Control, Odessa State Environmental University